

Sinclair Broadcasting Group, who owns stations in dozens of television markets, has plans to corrupt democracy in America just days before the election, by forcing their media outlets to run partisan political propoganda against John Kerry, and calling it news.

And this isn't the first time Sinclair, has compromised the journalistic integrity of its stations. It ordered ABC affiliates NOT to air a nonpartisan tribute to the US fallen soldiers of Iraq, fearing the consequences for Bush.

Sinclair media is turning our countries' media into joke.
Democracy? When you have conglomerate media giants, with a partisan objective, we have no democracy.

This is clearly a corruption of American democracy, and values.
Our media is beginning to look like state-run TV that you see in other countries.
This is America, that isn't supposed to happen.

Americans want integrity, not lies.
The public airwaves belong to the people, not partisanship, and conglomerates.
Sinclair is obligated to serve the best interests of the public, not promote a hidden agenda.

It is crucial that we strengthen our media ownership rules, and hold them accountable, by taking a long hard look at the license renewal process.

Thank you,
Angie Brooks